Dear Ms. Hendrick:

Please be kind enough to refer to your communication to your friend Maureen Levine dated June 30, 2014.

I am a graduate of MIT from the Class of 1932. I am enclosing a copy of the NUMISMATIST of July 1, 2014 in which was published beginning on page 34 entitled "18th Century Writings on the Continental Currency Dollar Coin" with the authorship of an article by Eric P. Newman and Maureen Levine. The publication begins on page 35 and ends on page 57 and contains many illustrations.

I believe you might be interested in publishing the recently printed research of those members of my class (1932). My co-author Maureen Levine is a well-known researcher and writer who is a close friend of mine.

I do not expect to write new future research publications, but the circumstances may change.

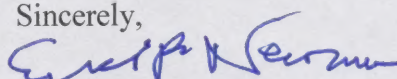

I will be glad to furnish additional information to you on request.

Note that my wife and I have been contributing to MIT for many years personally and through our charitable corporation.

I shall be glad to review any publicity you determine to give me before it is published.

I wish to thank you and your associates at MIT for your cooperation in the past, present and future.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read "Eric P. Newman", written in a cursive style.

Ms. Levine,

Janet Lieberman passed on your inquiry to me as our office helps maintain data on MIT alumni, parents, and students.

Thank you for your inquiry on behalf of Eric Newman '32. Glad to hear that he is still actively writing and researching.

Based on the information we currently have in our database, we know of only one other degreed alumnus from the class of 1932:

Mr William H Hodges that is still listed in our database as being alive as we have not received any other info nor researched any sources that would indicate otherwise.

There are 3 other individuals, two of which were non-degreed alumni of that class (they are affiliated with the class of 1932 but did not complete their degrees) and the third who received a graduate degree in 1932.

Mr Russell M Thayer (non-degreed alumnus from that class)

Mr Roderick D Macdonald (non-degreed alumnus from that class)

Mr. Upendra J Bhatt received his graduate degree in 1932, not an undergraduate degree.

At this point, this is the only information I can make available to you as a non-alumnus. Should Mr. Newman be able to contact us directly, I would be happy to provide him some additional (limited) information we may have on these individuals.

Please let me know if you have any other questions.

Thank you,

Sarah
